

GOOD HEALTH AND WELL BEING

Good health and well being are the important aspects for a happy survival. Telangana consists of different regions which includes different kinds of people. We are provided with the dataset which consists of different categories and the density of people in those categories. Our team worked on the dataset and created a dashboard on some aspects. The very first figure depicts the comparison of number of people in rural and urban areas of warangal on some aspects like sex ratio of the total population, women who are illiterate and some other. The second one describes the number of people in different categories at different districts. The third one depicts the difference in the some aspects between the districts of Adilabad and Nizamabad. The fourth picture gives us the clear idea of the density of population in different categories between the year 2019 and 2020.
